TRAIN HELD UP.

The Robbers Add Murder to Their Crime.

Seven Masked Men Board an Iron Mountain Express.

The Bandits at Once Began Firing From Their Revolvers. The Conductor Returns the Fire and is Killed.

Passenger Conductor J. P. McNally was shot and killed while trying to protect his train.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 4.—Fast express train No. 51, of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern, known as the Cannon Ball, due here at 9:10 a. m., was held up and robbed by seven masked men at Oliphant, Ark., seven miles north of Newport, at 10 o'clock Friday night.

Passenger Conductor J. P. McNally was shot and killed while trying to protect his train.

Oliphant is a small lumber town of about 800 inhabitants, situated in a lonely district in St. Louis county. Train No. 51 stopped at the station two men jumped on the engine, and pointing revolvers at the engineer and fireman, ordered them to keep still, at the same time threatening to blow their brains out if they moved a muscle.

The five men carried a pump action rifle and a door of which was open, and at once began firing a wicked fusillade from their revolvers.

McNally drew his revolver and returned the robbers' fire, but before he had succeeded in wounding any of them he was shot and killed.

The robbers then entered the express car, overpowered the messenger and looted the train. They then proceeded to guard the trainmen the other robbers proceeded to rob the passengers. They entered the coaches and sleepers, and carried off the money and valuables of the passengers of their valuables. They then left with a partner, taking a northerly direction. A telegram was sent to the St. Louis police, and a posse was started in pursuit.

An engine was dispatched to Augusta for bloodhounds. Telegrams were quickly sent to Little Rock for assistance, and a special train left about 1 o'clock, carrying a posse of officers and a pack of bloodhounds. The train which was held up is expected here about 3:15 a. m., bringing the remains of Conductor McNally.

The railroad people have no idea as to the amount of money secured by the robbers. General Superintendent Cook and Division Superintendent Rose of the Iron Mountain, who were in Memphis Friday night, have been notified of the robbery by telegram and have instructed the local police to make a search for the robbers.

Another World's Fair.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Francisco J. Rago, the representative of Chilli in Chicago, has received instructions from his government to attend the World's Exposition in 1904 at Santiago.

It will begin the middle of April and continue throughout the summer. It will be the largest exposition of the kind in the world, and will be the first to be held in the city of Santiago.

There is in Santiago a large building suitable for the purpose, and the government has appropriated $100,000 for defraying expenses.

A MUTUAL FRIEND.
Memphis Commercial.—Prince Serge Wolonsky of Russia doesn't like America. From the audiences his lectures are drawing, we are inclined to think it is horse and horse.

THE SAME OLD CUPERT.
Kansas City Journal.—The Democratic party is pardoning criminals in Illinois, elevating them to the bench in New York and fighting for stuffed ballot boxes at Washington. Democracy is pretty much the same old sinner wherever you find it.

QUITE ENGLISH, YOU KNOW.
Boston Globe.—A prominent New York City paper has become so English that it headed a recent dispatch "Lifts For The Queen" instead of using the customary Yankee word "elevator." Perhaps it will be making its clothing advertisers "top cost" instead of "overcost."

THE NEW YORK DUES ALREADY CALL IT "TOP COST."

RESULTS OF THE CONGRESS OF RELIGIONS.
Philadelphia Times.—The recent Parliament of Religions as a World's Fair attraction simply gave a chance to compare notes in creeds and beliefs, but now that the enterprise has become history the unity of opinions among the clergy touching beneficent results and kindred good appears to be as settled as the beliefs represented. Rev. Joseph Cook says he is in favor of one universal religion, provided it should be his particular religion.

Dr. Morgan Dix, who represents the church most conspicuous by its absence, declares that "the parliament was a marketplace of fanatic lunacy, the baleful influence of which cannot be overestimated." As samples of unity of opinion they afford a clever view of the esteem in which the Parliament was held.

The organizers, however, intended it to be a holy show with no exceptions.

NATIONAL FINANCES.
New York Press.—The Senate has acted wisely in substituting the Voorhees Repeal Bill for the Wilson Bill on its calendar. So far as the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman Act is concerned, the effect of the two measures is identical. But the so-called Voorhees Bill was framed in accordance with the views of the Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee, and is a positive and outspoken declaration in favor of bimetallicism, which is lacking in the Wilson Bill. It says:

"It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States to continue the use of both gold and silver as standard money, and to coin both gold and silver into coins of equal intrinsic value of the standard gold coin."

These statements are in line with consistent Republican policy. They pledge the Government explicitly to the Republican and American principle of bimetallicism, equally opposed to the silver coinage on one hand and British gold monometallism on the other. The enactment of this measure would constitute a guarantee that the vast silver interests of the Nation would not be sacrilegiously sacrificed. It would not be the way for the legislation for the protection of silver, which is necessary to place the currency on a thoroughly stable basis and promote the welfare of the whole country.

The question of a bond issue is dividing attention with the silver problem. The Press hopes that Senator Sherman will insist on the adoption of his proposition to strengthen the gold reserve by selling bonds. The silver and rate of the late panic might have been averted if President Cleveland had promptly reinforced the Treasury gold as The Press urged him to do. The need for a larger reserve has by no means passed. The gold in the Treasury is but little more than $50,000,000. A deficit of at least $50,000,000 in revenue for the present fiscal year confronts the incapable Democratic Administration. Grover Cleveland and John D. Carnegie have shown that they cannot be trusted to deal with the public interests in a great emergency. The power to bring about another panic by his wide disaster and its multitude of broken lives should be taken from them. The disaster of the late panic and national plainly call for the establishment of a fund of gold which will place the integrity of every American dollar beyond all doubt and make it impossible for these incompetent and untrustworthy politicians to weaken the National credit, which Republicanism has built up with infinite labor and skill.

The gold reserve should be $300,000,000 or more. The opposition of the Administration and its friends to the plan which Senator Sherman has suggested should not deter Republican Senators from introducing and supporting a measure to fortify the Treasury by the sale of bonds. The Democracy has shown its utter inability to deal with the great questions of the hour. The firm array of Republicans in the Senate should demand a bond issue which will make the currency absolutely safe.

The Business Way!

The business way to advertise is to take space by the year, take pains with your advertisement in making it attractive, and change them at least as often as once a month.

You may think there are seasons when you don't need to advertise.

We have never seen that time.

Use the dull seasons for looking over your stock and running off that which is becoming out of style or unfashionable, and giving bargains.

If you have space by the year, it costs you no more, and you can make it profitable by converting unsalable goods into money, and reinvesting the money in those things which are salable.

EXCEPTING during the Administration of JAMES BECHANAN it may be doubted if at any time in the history of this country a political party charged with the direction of the government manifested such ineptitude as is now displayed at Washington.

When Mr. CLEVELAND came into office only eight months ago, the business of the Nation was in sound condition; the revenues were more than sufficient to pay the interest on the public debt; there was no panic or fear of panic in the money market, and all the industries were in full and profitable operation, employing more people and paying to them higher wages than in preceding times.

To-day the mills are idle all over the country; business is depressed; uneasiness with respect to the future has replaced confidence; hundreds of thousands of men and women have no work; the revenues of the Government have no fallen off that a delinquency of fifty or seventy millions is within sight, and the shrinkage of values because of the distrust of the predominant party has involved the Nation in losses running far into thousands of millions.

GOOD ADVICE.

Every patriotic citizen should give his personal effort and influence to increase the circulation of his home paper which teaches the American policy of Protection.

It is his duty to do in this respect in every way possible. After the home paper is taken care of, why not subscribe for the American Economist, published by the American Protective Tariff League? One of its correspondents says: "No true American can get along without it. I consider it the greatest and truest political teacher in the United States."

THE MAHARAJA'S WIFE.

Her Clever Ruse in Circumventing the Hindoo Laws.

By Clothing Herself in Boy's Attire the Potentate's Wife Was Enabled to Accompany Him on His Visit to America.

One little incident of the maharajah's trip to this country which has not yet been chronicled, says the Philadelphia Press, gives a glimpse of adventure to the potentate's visit, not often met with in these prosaic nineteenth century days.

The Hindoo laws relating to women not only enforce their seclusion from what we term society, but forbid them from leaving the boundaries of India under any pretext. They are allowed to travel about in their own country under the strictest surveillance and with the proper escort, but the Brahmins, the ancient priests of the Hindu religion, holding their iron rule over rajah and low caste alike, have from time immemorial forbidden the women to travel in foreign lands.

When the maharajah decided upon taking his favorite wife with him on his visit to the United States he had to derive some means of circumventing the Brahmin tradition, and what did he hit upon but the old disguise of a girl.

He dressed his pretty little daughter as a boy and sailed out on his long journey without fear of the displeasure of the priests.

The little lady lent herself to the part she had to play. Several Americans who met the rajah's party in Rome and other continental cities were attracted by the pretty youth who was with them. When they tried to make friendly advances, the extreme modesty with which they were met rather puzzled them until, on arriving at Paris, the pretty youth disappeared and the wife of the rajah took her place.

One American lady who enjoyed the society of the rajah and his suite much from home to New York was not let into the secret until on board the steamship Paris she spoke to the rajah's secretary about the absence of that handsome boy she had met traveling with them.

The secretary explained the little ruse by which they had outwitted the Brahmins. Soon afterward the lady was introduced by the pretty youth, and the latter, on being reminded of her changed identity, laughing, replied in French, which she speaks very well: "Ah, yes; in Rome I was mistress; in Paris I was maid; I prefer to be a maid."

If the little trick should be discovered by the Brahmins on his return, all the maharajah would have to do to console his offense would be to hand over a good generous dose to the offended hierarchy.

This method of evading time-honored custom is evidently becoming quite popular among the younger oriental potentates who are developing the modern mania for travel.

The sultan of Turkey, in his recent travels through Europe, had with him a beautiful and mysterious page—his favorite wife, who, however, preserved her incognito until they returned to the palace.

EXCEPTING during the Administration of JAMES BECHANAN it may be doubted if at any time in the history of this country a political party charged with the direction of the government manifested such ineptitude as is now displayed at Washington.

When Mr. CLEVELAND came into office only eight months ago, the business of the Nation was in sound condition; the revenues were more than sufficient to pay the interest on the public debt; there was no panic or fear of panic in the money market, and all the industries were in full and profitable operation, employing more people and paying to them higher wages than in preceding times.

To-day the mills are idle all over the country; business is depressed; uneasiness with respect to the future has replaced confidence; hundreds of thousands of men and women have no work; the revenues of the Government have no fallen off that a delinquency of fifty or seventy millions is within sight, and the shrinkage of values because of the distrust of the predominant party has involved the Nation in losses running far into thousands of millions.

GOOD ADVICE.

Every patriotic citizen should give his personal effort and influence to increase the circulation of his home paper which teaches the American policy of Protection.

It is his duty to do in this respect in every way possible. After the home paper is taken care of, why not subscribe for the American Economist, published by the American Protective Tariff League? One of its correspondents says: "No true American can get along without it. I consider it the greatest and truest political teacher in the United States."

ADJOURNED.

The Extraordinary Session of Congress Comes to an End.

After Some Debate the Senate Agrees to the House's Proposition.

And an Adjournment Was Had at 3 O'clock Friday Afternoon—Before Adjourning the Senate Passed on the House's Fair Prize Winner.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The appearance of the senate presented no unusual features Friday morning. The attendance was small, both of senators and spectators.

Mr. Harris, for the reasons expressed by Mr. Coke, was opposed to adjourning. Mr. Cockrell said he heartily concurred in what his distinguished colleagues said, but it was not worth while to talk while it was known that quorums could not be kept in the senate and house for transaction of business during the remainder of this morning.

Mr. Call and Mr. Berry thought it was the duty of congress to remain in session.

Mr. Gray said it was an idle attempt of zeal to continue the session until December.

Mr. Harris, for the reasons expressed by Mr. Coke, was opposed to adjourning. Mr. Cockrell said he heartily concurred in what his distinguished colleagues said, but it was not worth while to talk while it was known that quorums could not be kept in the senate and house for transaction of business during the remainder of this morning.

CONFUSION

Holds Sway at the Columbian Fair Grounds.

The Places of Interest and Beauty Becoming Dull-Begrimed.

Freight Vehicles of Every Description Go Hither and Thither Through the Center—The Midway Being Turned—Large Buildings to Go East.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Confusion holds sway at the fair grounds. Dust is free to whirl around the corners and be buffeted through the portals to rest in Lake Michigan. Wagons laden with heavy machinery keep up a horrible roar as they head for the gates. Freight vehicles of every description go hither and thither through the broad avenues. Thousands of men at work with hammers and sledges add to the din. The lustreless speckled interiors of the palatial buildings are dust-begrimed. The midway is being torn down. In a few more days it will be a mass of debris. In a couple of weeks there will be nothing remaining to remind one of its existence. Within the same period these exhibits that are not reserved for the Columbian museum will be gone and the main buildings will be deserted. Desolation reigns immediately outside the gates. The territory for blocks about the fair grounds looks like a deserted village fast tumbling into ruin. Only the substantial merchants remain. The fairs, cheap restaurants and keepers of improvised hotels have moved on and left their tents unfolded. "To rent" signs are all the time being set up.

The permanent structures that were used for hotels during the exposition are being turned into apartment houses and flats, though some of the better hostleries are yet running on the old system, with a cheaper bill of fare and their price of lodging fixed by four. Most of the gates are closed up. Only about a half dozen gate-keepers are employed, and visitors at the pay gate are so scarce that the gate-keeper is surprised each time a paid ticket is handed him.

The Columbian guards are the only employees of the exposition who do not worry about the immediate future. There are 1,887 of them, and they are all to be retained until December 1, when the regular army will be sent to fill their place. The exposition Co. will relinquish control of the grounds. It is not yet decided what is to be done with the buildings. The exposition Co. on demolition is not disposed to be in a hurry, regarding it to the interest of the exposition Co. to give all buildings a chance. It is probable that most of the buildings will stand until spring.

The national commission is yet holding daily sessions, but is unable to clear up its business because of the absence of a quorum. An effort was made Friday to whip in a number of absentees known to be in the city without success. The question as to whether the agricultural machines, which did not go into the field for a test, are to be examined is meanwhile being held in abeyance.

For a minute Friday it seemed as if the old days of the exposition had returned. The wind suddenly heaved shouts of laughter and all kinds of merry noises proceeding from the terminal station. The place was full of boys. A band began to play, and a procession of youngsters started across the plaza. Six hundred newboys arrived from Detroit.

They came in a special train of twelve coaches over the Michigan Central as the guests of Gen. Russell A. Alger, of Detroit.

A CONFUSION.

A Tennessee Assassin Tells How He and His Pal Killed a "Fragrant" Senator. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 4.—A few days ago Night Operator Lowery was foully murdered at Shell Mound, Tenn., and two days later two mountaineers named Gen. Kennedy and John Kennedy were arrested by detectives on suspicion. They were put in jail here and at midnight Friday night Gen. Kennedy was taken to the city and the murder was committed for robbery; that he and John had gone several times to rob the depot, intending to chloroform the operator, but the door had always been locked and they could not obtain an entrance. Finally they tried the last time and could not get in, so John Kennedy placed his gun to the window and fired. They then climbed in the window and robbed the station and left.

NOTHING BUT GOLD.

A Canadian Mine Which Kneels Out Old Gold.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 4.—A. L. Luce, government director of the bureau of mines, has just returned from a visit to the mining regions north of Lake Huron. He reports that the Ontario mine, near the old village of Bruce Mines, owned by wealthy New York and western capitalists, is the richest in the world. A new mill that has been running a year at this mine is turning out gold at the rate of $60,000 a month, and the proprietors are piling upon their dump ore valued at millions of dollars. Blue says the rock is yellow with gold, and in every direction there are showings of the mineral.

"World's Fair Grip."

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Local physicians say there is nothing dangerous in the new complaint that has been designated the "World's Fair Grip" and which is not only very prevalent here, but appears by reports to have been carried home by World's Fair visitors from different parts of the country. General languor, severe constipation of the bowels of the nose and a hacking cough are the principal symptoms. Some physicians regard it as merely a modified form of the old grip, and say that it presents no features that are new to medical science.

SENSATIONAL FIND.

Of a London Workman While Turning on a Scaffold Under Westminster Bridge.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Globe Friday printed a story of an alleged attempt to blow up the Westminster bridge. In view of the fact that the Globe is a conservative organ and that strenuous efforts are being made to secure the release of the Irish political prisoners who are not lacking persons who claim that the Globe's story should be a "gun grain" shot.

According to the Globe's story, a workman employed to attend the scaffolding on the bridge, found a temporary scaffold beneath the bridge, found on Wednesday last a large parcel wrapped in brown paper on a ledge of the center buttress.

The workman, thinking that perhaps he had found something valuable, took the parcel into his boat and made an examination.

He was horrified to find that it contained a conical iron bomb, weighing about seven pounds.

In the inside of the bomb was a hole, through which the workman saw that the bomb contained a substance with which he was not familiar.

The workman had a bucket in his boat. This he filled with water, and then immersed the bomb in it. The bomb was taken to Scotland Yard.

The officials there were thrown into a state of consternation when they heard the workman's story. They immediately jumped to the conclusion that there was to be a repetition of the dynamite outrages that terrorized London some years ago.

The bomb, still in the water bucket, was placed out doors, and several detectives were detailed to guard it. The inspector of explosives was at once notified.

He took charge of the bomb to examine its contents. Since then nothing has been heard of the bomb.

Those who are in favor of releasing the Irish political prisoners, sneered at the Globe's story.

The story of the discovery of the bomb caused somewhat of a sensation when it became generally known. During the dinner hour of the workmen and others in the vicinity of the great bridge, large crowds gathered and gazed at the buttress where the bomb was found, and commented upon the effect of an explosion there. The bomb was nine inches long and four in diameter.

BRAZIL TRADE.

Much of It Lost to North American Merchants.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—While no precise figures can be obtained from the bureau of statistics as to the Brazilian trade, as exportations are principally classified by product and not by countries, South and Central America being generally lumped together, the fact is being made broadly apparent that a very considerable interruption of commercial intercourse is being occasioned by the revolutionary movement of A. L. Nello.

The coffee import trade of the United States largely center in Baltimore, and has Rio for its chief source of supply. There has also been a large export trade in flour and other provisions to Brazil from that port. Friday morning's Baltimore American, speaking on this subject, says:

"Baltimore's commercial interests in Brazil have suffered much during the rebellion by the blockade of the port of Rio. Baltimore exports to that country annually a large amount of flour, hog products, and other provisions, along with manufactured articles. All this trade has been crippled by the revolution. Thursday for the first time in some weeks the sale was made of 1,500 barrels of flour for shipment to Rio. This will be promptly sent away, and it can be landed without trouble, will command a good figure, as prices for provisions are everywhere very high in Brazil and will go even higher should the revolution continue."

"The result of this venture will be watched with interest by merchants who have been trading with this South American republic."

New York, Nov. 4.—The Tribune says "Recently a vessel without name addition being reported to the fact that President Peixoto of Brazil, is organizing here to fight his rebellious admiral. The latest purchase reported is that of the submarine torpedo boat Peace-maker. This boat was designed and built in 1884 by John P. Holland. The operator, but the door had always been locked and they could not obtain an entrance. Finally they tried the last time and could not get in, so John Kennedy placed his gun to the window and fired. They then climbed in the window and robbed the station and left."

IN A GOOD CAUSE.

New York Artists Give a Benefit for Suffering Southerners.

New York, Nov. 4.—The monster entertainment that was given in the Imperial music hall Friday afternoon for the benefit of the sufferers from the (Ga.) and sea island sufferers was one of the most notable benefit entertainments ever given in New York. Dignity Hall, who is now under the management of Mr. Loderer, supplied one of the numbers of the programme. Lillian Russell sang. The citizens committee, the secretary of which is Dr. Jenkins, health officer of the port of New York, co-operated in the work. Francis Wilson, Richard Mansfield and C. S. Sothern also appeared.

Taught Them a Lesson. LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Spanish embassy here yesterday was a disgrace from Madrid, the substance of which is that since the severe punishment which Marías inflicted on the Moore on October 21 as called to the Associated Press, the latter have disappeared from the sight of the officers in command of the garrisons of the different forts.

How a Young Thousand.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Hoy Long-wolf, who was serving a six months sentence for the conviction and made his escape about ten days ago, has returned to the jail. He says after his escape he went to Chicago. After being the subject of the World's fair he returned to serve out his term.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS.

Caused by Carelessness.

The majority of people die sooner than they should. Evidence of this fact is growing daily. Warning eyes: "Please read the consequence of life; it is due to unnatural conditions of living—neglect, abuse, want."

Dr. Stephen Smith, on the same subject, "Man is born to health and long life; disease is unnatural, death, except from old age, is accidental, and both are preventable by human agencies." This is almost invariably true of death resulting from heart disease, shortness of breath, palpitation, irritability of the stomach, indigestion, use of tea, coffee, tobacco, alcohol, or other stimulants are generally the cause of this difficulty, and indifference to the progress of such ailments is a sure sign of a fatal ending in death. By the newspapers it can be seen that many prominent and hundreds of persons in private life die from heart disease every day.
